

PTCC Group AAA – Nature 2 Backyard Nature

9 images from 3 members

01-After the drought.jpg

- cropping in on just the right hand 30% or so would allow a vertical presentation to show the resurrection of the flowers (shown larger) against the devastation of the dead trees.

As it stands the flowers are a bit too small to carry the message without the title.

02-cleo rescued.jpg

Cute Kitty. Cropping this to a square or even a vertical and deleting the left half or so would focus us more on her face and those wonderful green eyes.

03-dragonfly.jpg

great silhouette. consider a square crop to delete the empty right side. an effort to lighten the wings nearer the stalk might be rewarding.

04-gardenmushroom.jpg

wonderful sharp focus on the blades and the light coming through the center. the stalk base is distracting and most could be cropped out by giving up a little on each side and bottoming the photo at the bottom edge of the cap.

05-Passing beauty.jpg pretty sharp, but could be sharper, maybe a higher ISO or tripod. darkening the beige in the background would help the flower separate from it and focus attention there.

06-Raindrops on Rose Blossom.jpg

nice and sharp. pleasant color palette

07-Rock Rose (Cistus) Close-up.jpg wonderfully sharp, magenta is a bit over saturated.

08-Rock Rose (Cistus).jpeg

I like the close up better. thanks for including it.

09-Super Nest.jpg

cropping in from the left to the first insulator wouldn't lose any of the story and would make the nest and bird larger. Lightening the nest and bird (a bit) would help focus the eye there.

WINNERS

Honorable Mentions

03 - Dragonfly: Jennifer Berntsen

02 - Cleo rescued: Jennifer Bernsten

05 - Passing Beauty: Bill Stutts

3rd Place

06 - Raindrops on Rose :Doug Rothnie

2nd Place

04 - garden mushroom :Jennifer Berntsen

1st Place

07 - Close up of Rock Rose : Doug Rothnie